Being Made in Central Virginia by Dr. Taber, a Noted

Geologist. Aryonia, Va., March 2 .- Dr. Stephen Taber, a noted geologist, connected with one of the large universities, is at present making an exhaustive study of the earthquakes which have occurred in central Virginia for the past fifty or sixty years, being engaged in collecting all the data possible from every source, published and unpub-lished, and therefield drawing concluevery source, published and unpublished, and therefus drawing conclusions which he believes will result in much good to the public in general and much enlightenment to science. It seems that central Virginia, contrary to general opinion, is decidedly prone to carthquake shocks, there having been fi 'teen distinct shocks recorded here since 1875. The Arvonia siate section is particularly pione to carthquakes, there having been several severe shocks here within the past five years, the last recorded having occurred at S.P. M. on August 7 last, Dr. Gasty, of the university department of geology being here at the time studying slate formations. This shock was not felt many miles in any direction from Arvonia, being entirely local.

A very severe shock was also felt here on February II, 1907, the centre of the shock having later heen placed between Arvonia and Eremo Bluff, directly in the centre of the great siate belt. The matter was fully investigated by the department of geology of Johns Hopkins University for the United States Geological Survey. This shock was felt as far north as Charlottesville and as far south as Blackstone and Farmville.

Another severe shock was felt here on May 10, 1909, this being also apparently entirely local, as it was felt and recorded only as far east as Cartersville, and not much farther west than Scottsville.

Dr. Taber is much interested in the matter of making full provision against

Dr. Taber is much interested in the natter of making full provision against carthquake disasters by building in a manner that will resist the terrible fremors attending earthquakes. He states that full investigation revealed the fact that all the evil and terrible consequences of the San Francisco earthquake could have been avoided by mener preparations taken when proper precautions taken when Rope are for the prosecution. There will also be a meeting of the County School Beard on that day, and many matters of great importance to the schools will come up for settlement. Teachers of the county are now complaining that their State warrants, issued and paid under the new laws, are not being paid, the treasurer explaining the matter by saying he is unable to collect the taxes. This condition is said to prevail in other counties, and Superintendent of l'ubile instruction Stearnes has written to county school officials that he has taken the matter up with the Alforney-General, and that they hope shortly to come to a decision that will help the teachers to their pay without having to wait for the forced collections of May and June.
